Our Cover

The 2022 JW0X/JW100QO DXpedition started in Svalbard, an archipelago in the Arctic Ocean, where a team of 15 hams made thousands of contacts. After 4 days, a subset of the team embarked on a 6-hour trip by snowmobile from Longyearbyen to Kapp Linné, the site of Isfjord Radio, a radio and weather station. From this location, the team made the first-ever contact from Svalbard via the QO-100 satellite. For all the details on this adventure, read "JW0X/JW100QO: An Unforgettable DXpedition in the Arctic."
