Our Cover

Staten Island Technical High School (SITHS) has woven amateur radio into their engineering curriculum with help from ARRL. Not only did the school receive an ARRL Education & Technology Program School Station Grant, one of their engineering teachers attended the ARRL Teachers Institute on Wireless Technology specifically to learn how to bring amateur radio into his classroom. Learn how the SITHS students are enthusiastically engaging with ham radio in "Connecting Youth with Ham Radio in the Classroom," by classmates Ashley Li and Olivia Wojtczak.
